

NILS NAVARRO PACHECO'S CUBAN KESTRELS

This original work of art depicts a male (light/white phase) and a female (dark/red phase) Cuban Kestrel (Falco sparverius dominicensis). In Cuba, it is common to see both phases, nesting as like- or mixed-phase couples.

WIN THIS FABULOUS ART AND SUPPORT CARIBBEAN BIRDS!

Internationally-acclaimed Cuban wildlife artist, Nils Navarro Pacheco, created this original artpiece to benefit Caribbean bird conservation. Painting is 28x38 cm (~12x15 in), done in watercolor on Arches Paper.

Tickets to enter the raffle for this art are US$5 each. Proceeds will be administered by the Society for the Conservation and Study of Caribbean Birds. Tickets are available until October 1, 2005; the drawing will be conducted by SCSCB President, Andrew Dobson, on October 8, 2005.

Contact:

It only takes one to win, but you can't win without one!